

Something worth saying

Speaking Pack | Suggested ages 10 to 14 | For two people

Pick a prompt you actually want to discuss. You can plan a few words, pass on a topic or ask your partner to go first.

A recommendation

Recommend a book, game or place. Give one reason and one useful detail.

A choice

Would you prefer a beach day or a mountain walk? Explain one reason.

An everyday idea

What would make an ordinary school break more enjoyable? Suggest one small change.

Useful beginnings

I would choose... / I recommend... / One reason is... / For example...

Keep the exchange going

Speaking Pack | Listen, then ask one more question

1. Your partner starts

Choose a prompt from page 1. Listen without planning a correction.

2. Pick a follow-up

Why did you choose that?

Can you give an example?

What do you like about it?

Would you choose the same thing next time?

3. When a word is missing

Try: "I mean...", "It is a thing you use for...", or "How do you say...?". You can pause, describe the word or ask for help.

4. Swap roles

The person who listened now answers. Both people get thinking time.

Plan a small idea together

Speaking Pack | A pretend plan, not a test

You have a free afternoon in a story. Choose an activity together. Each person suggests one option, gives a reason and asks a question.

Our two ideas

One reason for each idea

A question I want to ask

Our choice and why

Afterwards: Which phrase helped? What would you like to try next time?

For the grown-up

Answers, adaptations and a small next step

Keep it relaxed

Choose one activity. You can read the instructions aloud, offer two choices or let your child point before speaking. Age suggestions are not an assessment.

Answers / possible responses

These conversation tasks do not have a single correct answer. The aim is a clear exchange, not agreement with an adult.

Listen for: a choice or idea, one supporting detail, and a question that connects to the partner's answer. These are practice prompts, not pass/fail criteria.

Example: "I recommend this game because we can play together. It takes about ten minutes. What games do you like?"

Make it easier or stretch it

Use one sentence beginning and allow notes. For a longer exchange, ask a follow-up or explain a different preference politely. This pack does not provide a CEFR level or formal assessment.

Pour les parents

Choisissez une seule activité au départ. Lisez les consignes si besoin et laissez votre enfant montrer avant de parler. Les âges sont des repères, pas des niveaux à atteindre.
